
Fact Sheet

Nestlé Nutrition

Description Nestlé Nutrition has a passion for innovation and is working to help enhance quality of life by supporting health and providing care for people with special nutrition needs at every stage of life. Nestlé Nutrition has over 30 global brands and an innovative portfolio of products with scientifically proven nutritional benefits. Its strong foundation in science is underpinned by a global R&D network to find specific solutions for complex nutritional needs – translating science into products that deliver functional health benefits.

Background 2004: Nestlé Nutrition established as globally managed business within the Nestlé Group and has grown internally and through acquisitions, which completed the existing portfolio of activities:

2005 Acquisition of Musashi

2006 Acquisition of Jenny Craig

2007 Acquisition of Novartis Medical Nutrition

2007 Acquisition of Gerber Products International

Nestlé Nutrition consists of four Business Units;

Infant Nutrition

Developing baby food and infant formula to help infants and young children to grow and develop into healthy adults.

HealthCare Nutrition

Developing products for the elderly and for people recovering from, or managing specific medical conditions.

Performance Nutrition

Promoting peak mental and physical performance of athletes.

Weight Management

Developing personalized weight management programmes to help consumers to lose weight and keep it off.

Key Brands NESTLÉ NAN, LACTOGEN, CERELAC, GERBER, BOOST, NUTREN, PEPTAMEN, POWERBAR AND JENNY CRAIG

Sales 2009 CHF 9 963 millions (OG +2.8%)

Employees Around 17'000 people
