Nestlé reports nine-month sales for 2021, raises full-year organic sales growth guidance

- Organic growth reached 7.6%, with real internal growth (RIG) of 6.0% and pricing of 1.6%. Growth was supported by continued momentum in retail sales, steady recovery of out-of-home channels, increased pricing and market share gains.
- Total reported sales increased by 2.2% to CHF 63.3 billion (9M-2020: CHF 61.9 billion). Foreign exchange reduced sales by 2.0%. Net divestitures reduced sales by 3.3%.
- Full-year guidance for 2021 updated: we expect full-year organic sales growth between 6% and 7%. The underlying trading operating profit margin is expected around 17.5%, reflecting initial time delays between input cost inflation and pricing, as well as the one-off integration costs related to the acquisition of The Bountiful Company’s core brands. Beyond 2021, our mid-term outlook for continued moderate margin improvement remains unchanged. Underlying earnings per share in constant currency and capital efficiency are expected to increase this year.

Mark Schneider, Nestlé CEO, commented: “We are pleased with Nestlé’s strong organic growth in the nine months, driven by broad-based contributions from most geographies and categories. The relentless focus of our teams on local execution and agility enabled us to navigate input cost inflation and supply chain constraints. In the third quarter, we increased pricing in a responsible manner, while maintaining strong real internal growth. Investments in innovation, digitalization and sustainability further supported growth by enhancing the relevance and differentiation of our offerings.

Nestlé continues to take actions on sustainability. We recently laid out our plans to support a just transition to regenerative food systems, which will help achieve our climate targets as we work closely with farming communities around the world to improve soil health, restore water cycles and increase biodiversity for the long-term.”

Business as a force for good: supporting a just transition to regenerative food systems

Nestlé is a signatory of the UN Business Ambition for 1.5°C pledge and was one of the first companies to share a detailed, time-bound climate plan in December 2020. The company is taking action to halve its emissions by 2030 and achieve net zero by 2050. Agriculture plays a critical role in achieving these climate targets as two thirds of Nestlé’s greenhouse gas emissions stem from the production of food ingredients. In September 2021, Nestlé announced that it will support and accelerate the transition to regenerative food systems – one that aims to protect and restore the environment, improve the livelihoods of farmers and enhance the well-being of farming communities.

Together with external partners, from farming communities, academia, civil societies and government, Nestlé is piloting trials with more than 50 reference farms globally. The learnings from these trials will be adapted locally and scaled up.

Regeneration is fundamental to creating more resilient food systems. Regenerative farming practices aim to restore soil health, renew water cycles, increase biodiversity, and integrate livestock. These practices can also sequester carbon, which will contribute to achieving Nestlé’s ambitious climate targets.

The transition to regenerative food systems will only succeed if it is socially and economically viable for all, which is why Nestlé is putting farmers at the center of its efforts. The company will offer investment support to mitigate initial risks and pay premiums for raw materials produced using regenerative agriculture. This will reward farmers not only for the quantity and quality of ingredients, but also for the environmental benefits.

For technical assistance, Nestlé’s vast network of experts and agronomists will deploy state-of-the art science to help farmers adopt regenerative practices. The company will also offer agricultural training and help farmers exchange information and best practices that can be adapted locally.

Nestlé expects to invest CHF 1.2 billion over the next five years to support the adoption of regenerative farming practices by its network of more than 500,000 farmers and 150,000 suppliers.

Outlook

Full-year guidance for 2021 updated: we expect full-year organic sales growth between 6% and 7%. The underlying trading operating profit margin is expected around 17.5%, reflecting initial time delays between input cost inflation and pricing, as well as the one-off integration costs related to the acquisition of The Bountiful Company’s core brands. Beyond 2021, our mid-term outlook for continued moderate margin improvement remains unchanged. Underlying earnings per share in constant currency and capital efficiency are expected to increase this year.
